QUESTION PURSUANT TO COUNCIL PROCEDURE RULE 8:2

FROM COUNCILLOR L. BURNETT

TO THE EXECUTIVE LEADER AND CABINET MEMBER FOR PERFORMANCE
AND RESOURCES

CAR PARKING CHARGES

In his recent statement the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Extreme Poverty and Human Rights, Professor Philip Alston, stated that the costs of austerity have fallen disproportionately on the poor and on women with 'highly regressive government policies since 2010 taking the highest toll on those least able to bear it'. Critics of the Council's parking charge proposals argue that their greatest impact will be on residents who live in the less affluent communities around our town centres and the shop-workers employed in them who are predominantly women. Would the Leader explain why he feels such a damaging policy would be acceptable?
